For organizations that serve youth and families in Athens, GA

The Center for Family Research (CFR) at the University of Georgia (UGA) is issuing a Request for Proposals (RFP) to receive training to deliver the SAAF-Teen program to families in Athens, GA. This opportunity is part of CFR's Outreach efforts. The selected organization will be able to attend the training at no charge. The proposal deadline is November 14, 2022 by 5:00 p.m.

Eligibility for this opportunity is limited to organizations with a demonstrated history of success in providing community-based family programming in communities of color in Athens, GA.

INTRODUCTION

The Center for Family Research at the University of Georgia has been conducting research across the state of Georgia for over three decades. Much of the focus of CFR's research has been understanding processes of African American families in the rural south. This research has allowed the Center to better understand family contexts and how family strengths and practices provide protection for youth during their formative years. Our research has led to the development of several family based programs, including two that are currently being adopted by organizations and agencies across the U.S., through the Center's Dissemination Office.

The Center is offering a training on the SAAF-Teen program in February of 2023 for organizations that are interested in adopting the program. As part of CFR's Outreach efforts, our goal is work with a local organization to support program delivery in the city that is home to the University. We have developed this RFP process to select an organization that is both interested in adopting the SAAF-Teen program, but also has the capacity to deliver and sustain the program as part of their organization.

SAAF-TEEN PROGRAM OVERVIEW

The Strong African American Families-Teen Program (SAAF-Teen) was developed by CFR and tested as part of the Rural African American Families Health Study in 6 Georgia counties (Burke, Emmanuel, Jefferson, Laurens, McDuffie, and Screven). It is a 5-session interactive program for African American teens, aged 14-16, and their caregivers. The program focuses on strategies that help teens make positive decisions regarding their future and addresses risks that can deter positive development. Findings from the research study showed the following outcomes for teens and parents/caregivers who participated in SAAF-Teen as compared to those that did not:

Teen Outcomes	Parent/Caregiver Outcomes
<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Fewer conduct problems• Less frequent substance use• Fewer substance use problems• Reduced depressive symptoms• Decreased frequency of unprotected intercourse• Increased condom efficacy	Improved protective caregiver practices which included enhanced <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Communication about risky behavior• Problem solving between parent and teens• Parental monitoring• Support for teen's academic engagement• Racial socialization practices (e.g., instilling racial pride and teaching strategies for dealing with discrimination)

SAAF-Teen is currently featured on the following national registries of proven programs:

- Blueprints For Healthy Youth Development - <https://www.blueprintsprograms.org/programs/1036999999/strong-african-american-families-teen/>
- National Rural Health Resource Center - <https://www.ruralcenter.org/resource-library/strong-african-american-families-teen-saaf-t-program>
- Compendium of Evidence-Based Intervention and Best Practices for HIV Prevention - https://www.cdc.gov/hiv/pdf/research/interventionresearch/compendium/rr/cdc-hiv-saaf-t_rr_good.pdf.

To date, SAAF-Teen has been adopted by organizations in Georgia, Alabama, Washington, Louisiana, Pennsylvania, New York and Illinois. The types of organizations that have delivered the program include schools, faith-based organizations, domestic violence organizations, behavioral health organizations, juvenile justice programs, and community organizations.

Each session of the SAAF-Teen program is approximately 2 hours. During the first hour, teens and caregivers meet in separate sessions. Facilitators lead the teens through activities and discussions that address 1) planning for post-secondary education, careers and associated financial considerations; 2) risky behaviors, peer pressure and temptation; 3) sexual risk and safer sex, and; 4) important decision points and consequences. The caregivers are engaged in activities and discussions that address parenting teens as they get older and desire more independence, supporting school success, and protecting teens from dangerous situations and risky behaviors. During the second hour, the teens and caregivers participate in a family session which include family activities and discussions based on their separate sessions.

Three facilitators are required to deliver the SAAF-Teen program. One facilitator leads the Parent/Caregiver Sessions, while two facilitators share the responsibility of leading the Teen Sessions. All three facilitators work together to lead the Family Sessions. As a standard practice, we require organizations to have a minimum of five facilitators trained to better ensure that organizations will have adequate staff to deliver the program over time (e.g., schedule conflicts, attrition, etc.). All facilitators must fully participate in the three day curriculum training to be certified to teach the SAAF-Teen program.

TRAINING & IMPLEMENTATION AGREEMENTS

The selected organization will be asked to sign the SAAF-Teen Training and Implementation Agreement (see Attachment 1 for template) prior to training. This document outlines the agreements made by the selected organization regarding training and implementation. A brief summary of the agreements are provided below. Please review Attachment 1 for the detailed agreements.

Training Agreements

- Submit the SAAF-Teen Training and Implementation Agreement by the specified deadline.
- Meet with the Dissemination Specialist prior to training.
- Register a minimum of 5 staff/representatives to participate in the training.
- Ensure that training participants are aware of expectations for training.

Implementation Agreements

- Participate in a post-training meeting to discuss next steps and receive an orientation to the SAAF-Teen Impact platform.
- Ensure that each person delivering the SAAF-Teen program is a Certified SAAF-Teen facilitator.
- Refrain from sharing SAAF-Teen materials with other organizations/individuals.
- Begin delivery of the first SAAF-Teen program within six months of training.

- Notify CFR of the planned start date of the program.
- Ensure that facilitators participate in the coaching component during the first implementation.
- Provide implementation updates via the SAAF-Teen Impact platform¹ by entering the following information: participant and group information, Pre and Post-Test surveys, attendance, and adherence and fidelity checklists.

As part of this Outreach effort, CFR will provide:

- The 3-day Training of Facilitators at no cost to the selected organization.²
- A printed and collated set of curriculum materials to the organization at least one month before the first planned implementation.
- Electronic access to all curriculum materials for continued program delivery.

- Structured coaching during the first or second program delivery.

- Additional Resources (e.g., SAAF-Teen Resource Manual, SAAF-Teen Fidelity Manual).
- Access to the SAAF-Teen Impact Implementation Platform.
- Post training support and ongoing technical assistance.

BUDGET CONSIDERATIONS

The cost of training and curriculum materials will be covered by CFR. The selected organization should be prepared to cover the cost of supplemental materials (see list in Attachment 2). We suggest budgeting $300 for these materials.

The selected organization should also consider the staff/personnel time associated with coordinating and delivering the program. Coordination responsibilities include recruitment, establishing infrastructure, overseeing program materials, preparing materials, and reporting implementation information. During active program delivery, the time commitment for facilitators is 4-6 hours each week, which includes actual program delivery as well as preparation, set-up and clean-up time.

Finally, the selected site should consider costs associated with providing support to families to address potential barriers to participation (e.g., incentives, meal/snacks, childcare, and transportation). Local businesses may be willing to partner to provide food or items that can be used for incentives. The attached budget summary includes examples of implementation costs based on different scenarios.

Note: Because SAAF-Teen is an evidenced-based program, organizations may be able to apply for funding to support sustainability of the program. Organizations that have adopted SAAF-Teen have received funding from grants designed to address issues such as substance use, HIV prevention, behavioral/mental health and academic enrichment. Some organizations have also received funding from local, state or federal government and private foundations.
